LAB DOMES

A large, dome-shaped planetarium is shown from an interior perspective. The dome's surface is illuminated with a vibrant red light, displaying a complex, biological or cellular scene. The scene features numerous rounded, disc-like structures, some of which are larger and more prominent than others, suggesting a microscopic view of cells or a similar biological process. The lighting is dramatic, with the red glow filling most of the dome's interior. In the foreground, the dark structure of the planetarium's base is visible, including a camera mounted on a tripod and other technical equipment. The overall atmosphere is one of scientific exploration and education.
